In the coming days, Loma Linda University expects to receive the funding allocated to assist students through the Coronavirus Aid, Relief, and Economic Security (CARES) Act, passed by the U.S. Congress on March 27. We are writing today to let you know how the money will be distributed to our students.

The CARES Act specifies that funds, in the way of direct cash grants, should be used to assist students with “expenses related to the disruption of campus operations due to coronavirus.” While the legislation limits eligibility for CARES Act funds to only students eligible to receive federal financial aid, excluding assistance to DACA and international students, the University will use its own funds to pay the same level of aid to other eligible students as outlined below.

Most students who paid an enrollment fee for spring term will receive a COVID-19 Online Transition Scholarship of $320 to assist with costs associated with the transition to online learning.

No application is required; the funds will be applied based on the funding source as follows:
